I bought a DB11 in April 2020, after deciding not to spend the money on a new transceiver. When the packages arrived, it seem a little daunting and I wondered why I had spent so much money!

Once I had the antenna working, all the hours of head scratching and worrying that it wasn't going to work disappeared from my memory. This was the best investment I have made in my radio hobby. I'm now envied by many of my radio friends for the stations I've worked that they couldn't hear with their antennas. It is a big investment, but my old radio now out-performs the more modern radios of other Hams, with their old non-SteppIR beams... and that's without an amplifier!
